MELLIE-GRAMS

Seven Weeks More Writes Mellie Dunham

This week he is at Youngstown, Ohio, and next week will return to the 105th Street Theatre, Cleveland. It is for the opening of Keith's Million Dollar Play House and then to Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Planting Time Calls Him

"One week more passed. Weeks slip by and planting time will soon reach Maine and the seed must be put in the ground for the harvest even on Crockett Ridge, Norway. How fast they go! Yet everyone brings new scenes, new friends and incidentally a "pay day". We have had a cold rough week, but not nearly as bad as they have had in many places around us. Much damage has been done north, west and south of us. We are both well. We go to Youngstown next week.

The theatre people had a baked bean contest and Gram and I had to judge them. The winner gets $50.00. When they carried them out to a hospital for crippled children. We went too and I played a few pieces for the kids. One that I played was "Cincinnati Home Pipe". The children thought it was fine so did the people in the Army at Lewiston last October. Our act is going well. We have met Marion and Fred Noble and Frank Barron here in town, formerly of Norway. We do not see very much of the country we pass through as most of our trips are made in the night, but we have some daylight journeys which are very interesting. Several of the people in our act have been into Kenton, which is only a short distance away. I didn't go. Neither did Gram. Regards to all.

Cincinnati, April 2, '26. Mellie.

Mellie's Home Song

Tune "Home Sweet Home"

I've traveled far, I've traveled far,
I'm weary of the world,
But having started I must keep
On, and on, and on,
Sometimes the yearning in my heart,
Is almost more than I can bear,
But patient I must be,
For getting home is my day,
My last and first act,
Then I can see my home again,
And have my own picket bay,
The joy of viewing my home-town,
God grant I see it soon,
And when my home I have reached,
It's Home Sweet Home my tune.

Chorus

Home, home, my old home town;

I never looked as sweet before,

Now, Gram, we'll settle down.

(Original)

—JENNIE LIND ALLEN.

112 Union Ave., Old Orchard, daughter of an old fiddler.

Mellie is a Giant at the Buick Co.

Mellie Dunham with his faithful fiddle is posing in the window at the Norway Buick Co. It is not our Mellie in the flesh, but a good reproduction some eight feet in height, the work of a scenic artist. Photograph was enlarged and painted in colors, on wall board, then cut out to make a full length statue. A lighting effect has been worked out by Ned Burnell, which sets the figure off to advantage. The statue was for publicity in theatre lobbies and presented to Mellie at Washington, D. C. Nate Noble, his son-in-law, is the gift with Mellie returns.

National Music News Service of Cincinnati says: "His faith in the goodness of human beings has been reinforced by his traveling about the country."

"Grandma Mellie" Dunham, champion fiddler of Maine, in Cincinnati to present his vaudeville act, has confided to friends here.

"Folks are the same as they always was," the stockily-built old fiddler said, as he exhibited a solid silver watch which had been shipped into his hand by a "friend" and right as he left the wings of the stage, he said, "They'll be kind to you if you're good to them, but you can't expect to be treated fairly if you don't do the same thing."

"The aged fiddler's eyes filled with tears as he described to officials of the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company, while he gave a guest there, that he would 'never forget the kindness of Henry Ford to a wife and me. He treated me in a princely manner. Nobody could have been treated better.'"

Asked about the flash of Charleston in his act, "Grandma Mellie" said he could not do it "very well, because when I was young I was learning to fiddle while my wife says my dancing reminds her of a horse tied to a post he don't like. I'd rather fiddle than do the Charleston any day."

During his visit to the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company here, "Grandma Mellie" was accompanied by a photographer with genuine good humor, holding a high-priced rare violin from the Wurlitzer collection in characteristic pose.

Guy Herrick received a paper from Youngstown, Ohio, saying Mellie was warmly received there by a serenade. There are thirty people with him and they were putting on three shows, in the forenoon, afternoon, and evening.

CAUTION AND SICK WHEELING

D. M. French, General Manager and big boss of the Leonard Packing Co., at Pittsfield, N. H., writes us.

He says he shall come here when "the wheeling gets better." Just as the "wheeling" was sick and he was waiting for its recovery!

We are waiting for him at the Wearies, where he refused to play cards after he was appointed deputy sheriff. Had Sheriff Cummings of Augusta been similarly cautious he might have avoided trouble and first page newspaper publicity.

The marriage of Samuel B. Stuart of Norway and Miss E. Kimball of Pine Plains, Saturday at 6:30 p. m. The officiating clergyman, Rev. N. R. Pearson, performed the single ring service. They will make their home in Norway.

Word was received from Portland, Thursday, concerning the condition of John Hasleton, who is at the St. Barnabas Hospital. "Uncle" John is resting comfortably, the amputation of his leg will not be necessary at present.

Angeworms and a lot of them have been found in a flower pot in our house. They are alive and squirming.

Recovery was made in the recent transplanting of a plant. Wonder how they got there? We know, but won't let on.

Mrs. Charles Libby, while with her sister, Mrs. Percy Walker, while Mr. Walker is in New York on business.

The Norway-Pine Plains Club met Thursday at the Congregational Church. Percy F. Ripley spoke on his recent trip to Washington, D. C.

Miss Katherine Jones from the Maine School of Commerce, are the guests of their father, Judge William F. Jones, Pleasant street, during the Easter vacation.

Barnyard Golf Coming With the Birds

Barnyard golf, otherwise pitching horseshoes is being revived and a summer campaign is being planned. An association exists in Oxford County affiliated with the state and national organization with some fifty members.

South Paris lends this section with a bunch of champions at the Mason Manufacturing Co. and other good tossers scattered throughout the village. The sport has a strong hold in that town and Norway is not far behind with a delegation of furlers. Oxford is another likely town with several extra good shoe men. Plans indicate a lively summer with matches and tournaments reaching out to Auburn and other pitching centers. It is possible lanes may be made on the fair grounds early in the season, where the sport can be enjoyed during the summer and matches held at the Oxford County's big show in September.

Whatever goes, it is certain that barnyard golf is the coming sport up this way and his already developed championship material.

INTER-CHURCH BASKET BALL GAMES

The Norway Universalists had an easy time with the South Paris Baptists at the gym, Tuesday night, "Rover" Towne dared the small audience with his sensational shots from mid-court. The Norway Congo also won their game at Paris by the score of 34-17, thus not changing the league standing. The last game in the schedule next Friday night, between the Universalists and Congregationalists should prove a thriller. League standing:

John Woodman is careful of eating, so of reducing weight. No need of it, as he is just right now and good looking. Someone recently told him about calories or about food and said 1400 was a dose. He adopted the system and gave it a painstaking try-out, resulting in an increase of 3

The Flyer Editor, who planned to make a triumphal tour of Portland, Gorham and way stations today, missed the morning train by a narrow margin, although it is believed (by him) that he lowered the sprint record on the straight away from the Flyer Bldg. to the depot. But there was small satisfaction in demonstrating his athletic prowess to an appreciative audience, when he thought of the disappointed multitude of hero-worshippers and prominent citizens who were waiting his arrival at the Union were waiting with bated breath and an open mouthed air of awe and expectancy. The Flyer Ed. has been on the verge of tears all day, as he thought of the heartrending scenes as the disappointed throng slowly dispersed with stifled sobs and dejected spirits. As the Editor slowly and sorrowfully wended his steps homeward to the ponderous portals of the Flyer Bldg. he could forgetful by the suppressed chuckles and cheerful countenances of all who greeted him that although he missed his ride, he is in for a good deal of "riding" on the part of his friends.

The selectmen, in taking the inventory, report a great falling off in live stock from year to year. There seems to be a tendency to leave the old places handed down to the next generation, covetous past and settle in villages or along good highways. Maybe the most remote farms are of more value growing up to pine. Without a doubt the majority of places scattered throughout Maine are ideal locations to live. Where can better scenery, more cordial and better informed people be found than through the hills of old Oxford County.

Lesson for April 11

THE STORY OF CREATION

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-2:25.
GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth.
Gen. 1:1
PRIMARY TOPIC—God the Creator of All Things.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of Creation.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God the Maker of All Things.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God in Creation.

Everything but God had a beginning. God the uncaused cause is the cause of all things. Let this fundamental truth, though beyond the power of the human mind to grasp, be believed and all our problems of philosophy and theology will be solved. I. The Origin of the Universe (Gen. 1:1).

It was created by God. All things came into being by the will and act of a personal God. Creation came to bring into existence that which had no previous existence.

II. The Regeneration of the Earth (Gen. 1:3-25).

Between verses one and two is clearly marked an interval of perhaps wide duration. The earth which was created by God was subjected to a judgment. The Hebrew word "was" might just as well have been translated "became." Instead, therefore, of the earth having been created a void or chaos, we see that it became so through a cataclysmic judgment. In Isaiah 45:18, the prophet declares that God did not create the earth a waste, but that He formed it to be inhabited. All that real geology has to say to us harmonizes with this view. The so-called six days of creation exhibit God's rehabilitation of the earth.

The cause for this judgment upon the earth is to be found doubtless in the judgment upon Satan, who is called the prince of this world (John 12:31).

Observe that God created the species and decreed that they propagate after their kind. Such a thing as one species developing into another is unknown to the Bible and real science.

III. The Origin of Man (Gen. 1:26-28).

He was created by God. He came into being through a special creative act of God. As to nature, he bore the image and likeness of God. This image and likeness is not physical or bodily, but intellectual and moral (Eph. 4:24, Col. 3:10). God's likeness is reflected in man's three-fold nature. Man is spirit, soul and body (1 Thess. 5:23). God made man with a personality capable of having fellowship with Himself—with whom He could share His glory.

IV. Adam Alone in Eden (2:7-9, 15-20).

He had a most beautiful place in which to live. God gave him surroundings in keeping with his nature. "Pleasant to the sight and good for food" describes his surroundings. He was to "dress and keep" the garden (v. 15), showing that work was God's primal thought for man. To this agrees the teaching of the New Testament. If any man would not work, neither should he eat (2 Thess. 3:10). Man in Eden was delectate. Paradise with all its splendor could not satisfy his lonely heart. Animals of all kinds surrounded him, but no companionship among them was to be found for him. To make Adam conscious of his condition God caused the animals to pass before him, with the result that no helpmate was found for him; man, being a personality, was differentiated from the animal.

V. The Origin of Woman (2:21-24).

To meet the need of man God made the woman. They had minds alike, therefore could commune together about the things that surrounded them, and about God. They had spiritual natures, therefore could commune together with God. God took a rib from Adam's side and out of it made the woman. Man was made from the dust of the ground and woman was taken from his side—thus woman was one removed farther from the earth than man. Someone has said that the man was dust refined, but the woman was dust doubly refined. Matthew Henry says, "Woman was made of the rib out of the side of Adam, not out of his head to triumph upon him, but out of his side, to be equal with him, under his arm to be protected and near his heart to be loved."

VI. The Origin of Marriage (2:24).

God made man—male and female. It was His intention that men and women should marry. Marriage is the most sacred of all human ties. It is of divine origin, for God Himself performed the marriage ceremony.

Give Credit to God

This act of initiative and daring, this resolute step of entire confidence, is at the same time the most reasonable proceeding that a creature may undertake. Give credit to God; no wisdom, no prudent calculation could be safer.—Charles Wagner.

Killing Doubts

Every step toward Our Lord Christ kills a doubt. Every thought, word, and deed for Him, carries you away from discouragement.

The First Robin

Come to Tell Us Robin is Here—But Bird Had Lost His Voice on April 11.

Across the face of the calendar of March twenty-first, in bright red letters were the words, "Spring begins," and this statement was verified, as the day proved to be one of blue skies and warm sun. The thermometer rose above the normal, and many believed that the long-looked-for period had at last arrived. Snow covered the ground to a depth of a foot or more, but was melting rapidly under the warm sun.

The young lady of the house remarked that soon we would see the robins flying overhead, and she expected to look out some morning and find the first harbinger of spring standing on the old tree stump in the lawn, to watch his feet out of the snow, as she had noticed that the stump was a favored spot.

The old man of the house thought it was a bit early for robins, as they would have to run on skis in order to get about. As April drew near there were no robins in sight, although the newspapers gave accounts of their arrival in other parts of Maine. The local paper stated that a flock of robins had been seen flying over the town, but many doubted even that.

The old man had made up his mind that no robin appeared before April first, that a New England robin was no robin, so as not to disappoint the young lady. Then he mixed up some plaster and following the model shown in a book on New England birds, he worked the plastic mud, molding it into the form of the delayed-forerunner of Spring. He whittled the plaster before it became hardened, filed and sandpapered it, so in time it would pass as a robin. From the hen house he gathered some feathers for the tail, which he inserted in their proper place. He then shaved the head of the bird, and dusted a few pin feathers on the back and neck, after which he trimmed the tail so that it had the correct sweep and length.

The bird began to take shape. The artistic work of painting the breast, using red lead, toned down with a dusting of red from the house heater. For eyes he inserted two small beads. For the legs he used two finished nails, the heads answered for claws.

On April first as no robins appeared the landscape, he arose early, and placed on the old tree stump his hand-made robin, and from the house he judged it would pass muster. He made up his mind that he had business elsewhere on that day, and stated to the young lady he would not return until supper time.

On April first, as on many previous mornings, the young lady took her place at the window and gazed over the snow-covered lawn, pausing at the old stump, where Lot and behold, there stood the first robin. She called to her mother come and see the Spring opening, and they both exclaimed in one voice, "Spring has come at last." The young lady walked out toward the stump, talking baby talk to the bird, and giving him a royal welcome. The mother, who had been told that he had fallen in love with Florida, and was not going to pay her a visit this year. She noticed that the bird seemed very tame, and she called to her, "There he is, a cold rain the night before, and she told her mother that the bird appeared so quiet, she feared his little feet from frozen to the stump, so she again went out and approached the robin, placing her hand gently along its back, lifting him from off the stump, in so doing one of his legs came off.

The old man, who had packed some snow and poured water over the stump, so that it would freeze and keep the bird in an upright position, so that was the cause of the dismembered limb. The young lady hurried to the house and she and her mother looked the hand-made robin over carefully, and learned that it was April first as the date had slipped their minds. When the old man returned, the young lady inquired if he had seen any robins during his absence, which he answered in the negative. "I said so," she said, "and I saw one on the tree stump early this morning soon after your departure and brought it in for your inspection, but he in his hand the one-legged robin, with the remark, 'Probably you have seen this bird before.' The old man stoutly denied that he had, but the young lady brought forward convincing evidence in the way of his plaster, her feathers and red paint. She forgave him, and all agreed it was a well played April Fool.

By accurate measurement, the full of snow Saturday night was a foot and plus. We were much interested in the item from South Medford, Mass., and the writer might have added that she was a direct descendant of Daniel Bean, a soldier of the Revolution, also a direct descendant of James Mills, a revolutionary soldier, whose grave can be found in the Grover Hill Cemetery, Bethel. Daniel Bean, or Bane, as the name is spelled in Tullock, Scotland, which is the ancestral home of the Beans (or Banes). The original John Bean, or Bane, arriving in America previous to 1600.

It is reported that the entertainment given by the children under the auspices of the grange is to be repeated at some future date (Oh! but the older ones like to dance "Pop goes the Weasel," too).

Shaw-Silver

One of the social events of the season was the marriage of Miss Beryl Childs Silver to Robert Sherwood Shaw, at the Universalist Church, Wednesday, Apr. 7. The decorations, in charge of Miss Bana Bette and Mrs. Harold Fletcher, were of Easter lilies and ferns.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. Chester G. Miller, pastor of the church, accompanied by the bridegroom and best man, William L. Maxim, a classmate of the bridegroom, took their places at the altar.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bride party passed up the aisle. The bride, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sadie L. Silver, was preceded by the bridesmaid, Miss Adeline Louise Silver, sister of the bride.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. G. Miller. The bride was given in marriage by her mother.

The bride was charmingly gowned in orchid georgette over pink crepe-de-chine with a gold thread lace tunic caught with flowers, and wore a picture hat to match. Her bridal bouquet was of opelia roses, and she wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

The bridesmaid was gowned in nasturtium crepe with hat to match and carried opelia roses. She wore a finger ring, the gift from the bride. The bride's mother was becomingly gowned in powder blue crepe with a hat of pale rose. The ushers were Guy Kendall and Roland Shaw of Portland.

A reception followed in the church vestry, which was effectively decorated with daffodils, pussy-willows and ferns. In the receiving line with the bride and bridegroom were the bridesmaid, the best man, the bride's mother and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shaw, parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. Shaw was gowned in gray silk with hat to match.

Oxford County United Parish

The pleasant evening enjoyed by the young people at the Flat was followed, on Thursday, by a social held by the younger set at North Waterford. Several new and old games suggested by the committee were enjoyed by those present and it is needless to say that the evening was not passed by without the usual enjoyment. It was a jolly evening.

On Friday evening the vestry at North Waterford was again opened. This time it was for a good Friday service which brought home to the group gathered there by song and reading and meditation something of the meaning of the cross. Sunday morning's heavy blanket of snow could not dampen the Easter spirit in the United Parish. We believe the first meeting of the day was the sunrise meeting at North Waterford. This was led by Ruth Holt, and it was a meeting that was good to attend. It hardly began at sunrise, but it was not until during the meeting that the sun broke through the clouds. The bright sunshine of the morning and afternoon was reflected in the faces and songs of the boys and girls who took part in the concert at North Waterford and East Stoneham. Surely these young people by the songs and "pieces" and their happy smiles made the day brighter and brought a message of Easter joy to each of the congregations.

Much credit is due the children for the excellence of their work and also to those in the different places who had charge of the congregations. They all helped to make a happy day still more happy.

A PLEA TO "OLD WINTER"

"Old Winter," why don't you go! We are tired of hugging you and of wearing shawl and hood; The coal fire is getting low; "Old Winter," why don't you go! "Old Winter," why don't you go! You've hung around long enough; We're tired of your line of stuff; And of cold North winds that blow; "Old Winter," why don't you go! "Old Winter," why don't you go! We're tired of shawl and hood; We prefer the "dust and heat"; We don't want any more snow! "Old Winter," please won't you go! —NELLIE U. STONE.
